Most visitors are attracted to Canada because of its wilderness areas, natural wonders and rural charm. This thriving multi-cultural society does, however, offer a lot more. Its French and British traditions happily mesh with those from the culture of neighbouring US and all the traditions brought from Europe, Asia and Latin American migrants.

Canada has 4 distinct seasons which arrive at different times of the year dependent on which province you are in. As a rule of thumb the further north you go the colder it gets. Due to these climatic variations, the southern areas are the most populated. Spring, summer and autumn are all great months for travelling although if its skiing you're after, we recommend that you go in winter or early spring.

STAFF PROFILE

Carly Clark – Senior Reservations Consultant

Carly joined Eliza Travel in November of 2000, bringing skills gained from working in various areas within the travel industry including working for a motorhome company and being a hostess in the Australian Outback. She has spent the last few years travelling Australia extensively and has a wide knowledge of Australia and outback areas with many a story to tell from these experiences. Coming from a motorhome background Carly has a very good knowledge of the vehicles we offer and is happy to assist with any questions about them. Having used them herself she can guarantee that this is a great way to travel.

Carly really enjoys helping people with their travel plans and making your trip the trip of a lifetime! She always likes to lend a hand to new clients and values feedback from clients about the wonderful time they have had on their journeys.

She loves the great outdoors, travelling and spending time with her three border collie dogs at her Mt Martha home on the coast of the Mornington Peninsula.

NEWS CORNER

New to Eliza Travel this month is our "State of The Art" Commander Telephone System. As communication is a large part of what we do, we have invested heavily in the latest in digital technology for phone systems. Our clients can now reach us on more lines than ever before, on a system that has improved clarity and a better voicemail system should all the lines be busy.

We have also improved our website: www.elizatrans.com to further improve our communication with you. Requests for brochures and quotes may now be done over the internet and we are currently trialing an area that allows our clients to interact live with our consultants. We will continue to focus on improving the service we provide to clients – our most valued assets.
